23 November 2023 – Alstom, global leader in smart and sustainable mobility, will participate in Rail Live! 2023, to be held in Hall 4 of IFEMA, in Madrid, between 29th November and 1st December.

Among other solutions and technologies, the company will exhibit its latest developments in cybersecurity, artificial intelligence applied to train and infrastructure maintenance, virtual reality solutions, and innovations for more inclusive and universal mobility. Visitors to Rail Live! 2023 will also be able to learn about the latest projects and technologies in signalling with CBTC and GOA4 with a driverless train cabin simulator (VR), infrastructure, and rolling stock.

Alstom experts will participate as well on different panels and round tables to show the company commitment to sustainable, inclusive, safe, healthy, and efficient mobility.

Come and meet us at Rail Live! Stand C082 – Hall 4

Along industrial and technological local commitment, Alstom is a key player in the mobility sector in Spain, with more than 3,200 employees, 4 industrial centres, 4 technology centres, and more than 20 depots. Among others, Alstom has an engineering and industrial site in Barcelona dedicated to manufacturing all types of trains, a propulsion-systems factory in the Basque Country, and, in Madrid, different technological innovation centres for developing projects related to railway safety, signalling, maintenance, and digital mobility.

Focused on innovation, digitalisation, talent, and sustainability, Rail Live! 2023 will bring together 250 international exhibitors, 300 speakers, and more than 7,000 experts who, for 3 days, will discuss the challenges and opportunities of the railway.
